BIOGRAPHY

Kyle graduated with distinction from the University of Western Ontario with a Bachelor of Science (Honors Genetics) in 2003. He continued his education at Western, obtaining a Master of Science degree (Biochemistry) at the London Regional Cancer Program in 2006 before receiving his LL.B. from Western in 2011. While at Western, Kyle was involved in student government. Prior to beginning his legal career, Kyle worked for several years in biomedical research.

Kyle's business litigation practice focuses on construction litigation for general contractors and large sized subcontractors in the ICI Sector and professional negligence defence litigation for engineers. Kyle assists construction firms with issues and claims arising throughout all project phases: from pre-tender bidding concerns through to post-completion dispute resolution and litigation.

In addition to being a litigation lawyer at Advocates LLP, Kyle is also a dad, an avid outdoorsman, a coffee connoisseur, a technophile and a volunteer with London Lawyers Feed the Hungry.
